Many thanks to the Van Andel Global Trade Center for its China Link Services, in particular, the Mandarin Chinese class for beginners. I actually took the class twice and it proved to be invaluable in my more than twenty trips to China. Saying a few words or phrases in Chinese helped a lot in developing my relationships overseas and in trying to connect with the Chinese culture.

Not only did the class participants learn some basic fundamental language, but also we were able to share experiences and develop new friends and contacts throughout West Michigan. The material made learning Mandarin as easy as possible for such a difficult language, and introduced the participants to the Chinese culture. Yalin Song was a patient teacher, and we had a lot of fun during classes.

I would recommend the Mandarin class to anyone planning on traveling to China or doing business with Chinese companies. I personally appreciate that the Van Andel Global Trade Center offers this service, and I encourage others to take advantage of this great resource.
