Dear Yalin,

I am grateful for the service offered by the ChinaLink program of the Van Andel Global Trade Center (VAGTC). In particular, the resource available to provide translations from English to Chinese language has been a tremendous asset to establish the connections important for business opportunities. You have been an excellent help in this regard.

The easy access to this needed resource, the quick turnaround time for translated materials requested, and the cultural-sensitive feedback offered the support, direction and preparation necessary to successfully introduce a new product to the Chinese market. Because of your translation service, the ChinaLink department ensured confidence in forming business partnerships in a foreign market, and therefore its service is instrumental in facilitating the process for export. This needed service, together with its attributes, is available at a user-friendly price, particularly important for small businesses.

I recommend the translation service of the ChinaLink department of the Van Andel Global Trade Center. It is a great benefit for U.S businesses interested in exporting products to China.

Cordially,
