

Criminal Justice Program Podcast

Hello, my name is Kelsey and I am a staff member in The Graduate School at Grand Valley State University. Thank you for taking the time to learn more about Grand Valley's Master of Science in Criminal Justice program. Today we're going to cover the admissions process, program requirements, and the qualities that distinguish this program.

Let's start by explaining to you what this program entails. The Master of Science Criminal Justice graduate program will prepare students to become leaders in the criminal justice field or criminological scholars in practical settings through lecture and lab courses. This is a 33 to 36 credit hour program and can be completed in 2 years as a full-time student or 4 to 6 years as a part-time student.

While many careers in the field of criminal justice will have positive employment growth from 2014-2024, employment for forensic scientists is expected to grow 27% by the year 2024, which is faster than average for all occupations.

Standard GVSU admission requirements include completion of the online application as well as a Bachelor's degree from an accredited institution of higher education. Your application must include official transcripts, and if English is not your native language you must provide scores from one of our approved standardized tests such as the TOEFL, IELTS, MELAB, or the PTE Academic. There is a $30 nonrefundable application fee, however this fee is waived if you attended GVSU previously or are currently attending GVSU.

In addition to the standard GVSU admission requirements, the Master of Science in Criminal Justice program requires students to have a 3.0 undergraduate GPA and to submit three letters of recommendation, two of which should be from university faculty members. A statement outlining each student's educational and professional goals is also required.

More program details as well as the online application can be found on the Master of Science in Criminal Justice program website, www.gvsu.edu/grad/cj.

The great news about GVSU's graduate programs is that tuition rates for Michigan resident and non-resident students are the same. In other words, there are no extra costs for being an out of state student. Current tuition costs and information about scholarships and financial aid can be found at www.gvsu.edu/financialaid or by calling 616-331-3234. For information on graduate assistantships, please contact The Graduate School at gradschool@gvsu.edu.

The Master of Criminal Justice program at GVSU is a 33-36 credit hour program. 18 credit hours will cover topics in criminal justice leadership, legal and ethical issues, program and policy evaluation, criminology and research methods. An additional 15-18 credit hours will be dedicated to courses covering criminal justice systems, interdisciplinary electives, internships with criminal justice agencies, independent one-on-one study with faculty and the option of completing a 6 credit hour master's thesis, which is highly recommended for students who intend to pursue doctoral studies. Students who elect not to write the thesis must complete a comprehensive examination as the culminating experience in the program. For a complete listing of all courses, visit www.gvsu.edu/grad/cj.

The Master of Science in Criminal Justice program at GVSU is unique for a number of reasons. This program trains leaders. Graduates are prepared as highly capable leaders, planners, activists, and academics who continuously improve the criminal justice system and profession.

This program is also interdisciplinary. Courses are designed to meet the needs of scholars, managers and administrators in law enforcement, adult corrections, juvenile justice, and private security. Lastly, our graduate program is comprehensive. The curriculum encompasses applied concepts of ethics, political and social justice, historical analysis of institutions and policy, leadership and management, theories, and research.

That is just a snapshot of the Master of Science in Criminal Justice graduate program here at Grand Valley State University. We hope that you will consider applying to a graduate program at GVSU.
