Office Hours: Tuesday and Thursday: 1 – 2:30pm, and by appointment

Required Textbook:

Myers, D. G., & Twenge, J. M. (2022). Social Psychology (14th ed.). New York, NY: McGraw Hill.

*This syllabus is subject to change. Changes (if any) will be announced during class, via email and/or in the class slides that are posted online. Students are responsible for keeping informed of any such notices.

Prerequisites: Undergrad level PSY 101 (minimum grade of D), or Undergrad level PSY 201 (minimum grade of D), or Undergrad level HNR 234 (minimum grade of D).

Course Description: This course is designed for undergraduate students interested in learning about how our thoughts, feelings, and behaviors are influenced by (1) situational factors (particularly other people), as well as (2) our membership in social groups. Throughout this course, we will be discussing the roles that both individual differences and situational factors play in guiding our everyday thoughts and actions. A primary goal of this course is to provide students with a foundation for understanding how people make sense of their lives and experiences, with an emphasis on contemporary theory and research.

Course Objectives: By the end of the semester, students should be able to: 1) understand and explain contemporary theories, concepts and principles drawn from social psychology, 2) appropriately integrate related concepts, and 3) apply knowledge to more accurately describe, explain, and predict one's own social tendencies and those of others

Basis for grading:

Exam 1 = 100 points

Exam 2 = 150 points

In-class quizzes/activities (10 quizzes/activities worth 10 points each) = 100 points

Homework assignments (3 assignments worth 10 points each) = 30 points

Total possible points = 380 points

Number grade = Earned points/380 X 100 (grades ending with .499 and below will be rounded down, and .50 and above will be rounded up)

Grading scale:

A = 94 and above

C+ = 77-79

F= 59 and below

A- = 90-93

C = 73-76

B+ = 87-89

C- = 70-72

B = 83-86

D+ = 67-69

B- = 80-82

D = 60-66

Exams: Exams will be used to assess comprehension and memory skills. These tests will be completed in-person in the classroom. Exams will consist of multiple-choice questions. Scantrons will be provided, but students need to bring their own No. 2 pencils. Students are responsible for knowing material from the text and any content discussed in class (including content from videos). Students will not be allowed to use any course materials during exams, and students are not allowed to talk about exam content with any other students who have not yet taken the exam (e.g., students enrolled in other sections of the class).

In-class quizzes/activities: There will be a total of 10 graded in-class quizzes/activities throughout the semester. The quizzes will each consist of 5 multiple-choice questions that cover any material that has been discussed in the text or in class by the time of the quiz. These will be “pop” quizzes (students will not be given advanced notice about the quiz). To receive credit, students must be seated in class at the time quizzes are distributed, and quizzes must be completed within the designated time. Since “pop” quizzes will cover any material discussed up to the time the quiz is taken, it is important for students to keep up with the assigned readings and to remember what has been covered throughout the semester.

Some weeks there may be a graded in-class activity instead of a quiz. These activities will include a graded component that requires students to submit their work by the designated due date. Details and instructions will be provided in class on the day of the assignment. The in-class quizzes/activities are unannounced and students must be in class and on time to earn points for these assignments. To maintain fairness to all, make-up opportunities cannot be granted (instead, when absences are justified the in-class quiz/assignment will be dropped from one’s overall grade; see class policies for late assignments and see me with any questions). Class attendance and attentiveness are thus strongly encouraged.

Homework assignments: Students will be required to complete 3 homework assignments. These are designed to provide students with the opportunity to thoughtfully apply principles that have been covered in class. More information about these assignments will be provided later in the semester.

Policies:

Grading: Students are not permitted to redo/re-take any assignments, quizzes, or exams, and so it is important to be prepared for class and on exam days. Please see me if you have questions about this policy.

Late assignments: If an exam, quiz or homework assignment deadline will be missed due to illness, I must be notified by email at least 1 hour before the scheduled due date. To turn in late work for reasons other than illness, students must contact me at least 24 hours in advance of the scheduled due date. A valid excuse must be provided for any missed work and students should wait for approval from me before assuming the excuse is acceptable. Exams, quizzes and/or assignments that are not turned in, or are turned in late and fail to meet these regulations will result in a zero.

Integrity of Scholarship and Grades

This course is subject to the GVSU policies listed at <http://www.gvsu.edu/coursepolicies/>

Truth and honesty: The principles of truth and honesty are recognized as fundamental to a community of teachers and scholars. The university expects that both faculty members and students will honor these principles and in so doing protect the validity of university grades. This means that all academic work will be done by the student to whom it is assigned without unauthorized aid of any kind. Instructors, for their part, will exercise care in the planning and supervision of academic work, so that honest effort will be positively encouraged. Compliance shall include compliance with the following specific rules:

1. No student shall knowingly, without authorization, procure, provide, or accept any materials which contain questions or answers to any examination or assignment.
2. No student shall, without authorization, complete, in part or in total, any examination or assignment for another person.
3. No student shall, without authorization, allow any examination or assignment to be completed, in part or in total, by another person.
4. No student shall knowingly plagiarize or copy the work of another person and submit it as his or her own.
5. No student shall submit work that has been previously graded or is being submitted concurrently to more than one course without authorization from the instructor(s) of the class(es) to which the student wishes to submit it.

GVSU Statement on Plagiarism

Any ideas or material taken from another source for either written or oral presentation must be fully acknowledged. Offering the work of someone else as one's own is plagiarism. The language or ideas taken from another may range from isolated formulas, sentences, or paragraphs to entire articles copied from books, periodicals, speeches, or the writing of other students. The offering of materials assembled or collected by others in the form of projects or collections without acknowledgment also is considered plagiarism. Any student who fails to give credit in written or oral work for ideas/materials taken from another is guilty of plagiarism. Such activity may result in failure of a specific assignment, an entire course, or, if flagrant, dismissal from Grand Valley. For further information see the Student Code.

AI Policy Statement (provided by David A. Joyner)

We treat AI-based assistance, such as ChatGPT and Copilot, the same way we treat collaboration with other people: you are welcome to talk about your ideas and work with other people, both inside and outside the class, as well as with AI-based assistants. However, all work you submit must be your own. You should never include in your assignment anything that was not written directly by you without proper citation (including quotation marks and in-line citation for direct quotes).

Including anything you did not write in your assignment without proper citation will be treated as an academic misconduct case. If you are unsure where the line is between collaborating with AI and copying from AI, we recommend the following:

1. Never hit "Copy" within your conversation with an AI assistant. You can copy your own work into your conversation, but do not copy anything from the conversation back into your assignment. Instead, use your interaction with the AI assistant as a learning experience, then let your assignment reflect your improved understanding.
2. Do not have your assignment and the AI agent open at the same time. Similar to above, use your conversation with the AI as a learning experience, then close the interaction down, open your assignment, and let your assignment reflect your revised knowledge. This includes avoiding using AI directly integrated into your composition environment: just as you should not let a classmate write content directly into your submission, so also avoid using tools that directly add content to your submission.

Disability: If you are in need of accommodations due to a learning, physical, or other disability you must present a memo to me from Disability Support Resources (DSR), indicating the existence of a disability and the suggested reasonable accommodations. If you have not already done so, please contact the Disability Support Resources office (215 CON) by calling 331-2490 or email to dsrgvsu@gvsu.edu. Please note that I cannot provide accommodations based upon disability until I have received a copy of the DSR issued memo. All discussions will remain confidential.

Well-being: Your health and your family's health should be a priority. If you are dealing with illness, sick family members, a bad internet connection, increased anxiety, childcare challenges, or any other issues, please reach out as soon as possible and we can talk about potential accommodations. GVSU remains committed to supporting you and is here to help you in times of financial need. Financial hardship funds may be available to help student's meet their basic needs, and help cover educational costs (such as housing, food, textbooks, and technology requirements) that a student could not otherwise pay out of pocket. Please visit the GVSU Special Circumstance & Financial Hardship Requests web page for more information.

Psych Friends Peer-to-Peer Mentors: Psych Friends mentors are upper-level psychology and behavioral neuroscience students who are trained to provide support in many areas, such as: effective studying and time management techniques, exam preparation and reflection skills, understanding the PSY and BNS major requirements, potential jobs and careers in the field, the process of applying for graduate school, and how to maintain physical and mental health as a student.
