

Emerging Community Engagement Initiative Award Application

Application deadline: April 1

The College of Community and Public Service seeks applications and nominations for the Emerging Community Engagement Initiative Award, which recognizes a community/university initiative that is exemplary in its efforts to design a strong two-way relationship of shared power and decision-making. The initiative itself is the award recipient, with an emphasis on the collective relationships as opposed to individual contributions. The initiative may be curricular or co-curricular or a combination of both.

Nominator or Applicant Information

Nominator or applicant name:

Nominator or applicant email:

Nominator or applicant phone:

Initiative Information

1. CCPS

Primary CCPS contact person for the initiative (if different than above):

Email address:

Phone:

Academic course(s)/program(s) with which this initiative is affiliated, if applicable:

Non-academic programs, offices, departments, or student organizations with which this initiative is affiliated, if applicable:

2. Community partner

Primary community partner organization, business, or group:

Primary contact person:

Email address:

Phone:

- 3. Who else is involved in the initiative? List other key faculty, staff, students, and community partner representatives involved in the program/project, along with a brief description of their roles.
- 4. Describe how the initiative meets the CCPS Emerging Community Engagement Initiative Award criteria in 750 words or fewer. In your response, please address relevant aspects of the criteria below.
  - Robust participatory planning resulting in a shared agreement that identifies mutually beneficial environmental, social, educational, and/or economic outcomes
  - Relationships of reciprocity in which community voice is valued
  - Partners operate from a shared agenda based on an identified community need
  - Community assets have been identified
  - Planning meetings include dialogue about the sustainability of the initiative
  - Students are involved in the development of the initiative