A GVSU PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

Austria: FH Joanneum

Open to: Students accepted into the Padnos College of Engineering and Computing. 2.7 GPA required. No prior language experience required.

TELL ME ABOUT THIS PROGRAM

Graz, Austria - FHJ is home to a thriving student population and one of the most well preserved city centers in Central Europe.

The FH Joanneum (FHJ) exchange program was developed by GVSU's Padnos College of Engineering and Computing. Students studying in Computing and Information Systems may take courses at FHJ during the Winter semester. GVSU students will be invited to register for a less traditional program which offers CIS courses in English on the weekend. It has been recommended by PCEC faculty that students plan to live in the city of Graz, but the weekend courses are offered only on the Kapfenberg campus which is a 40 minute train ride from the city of Graz. The CIS courses available through this program will be offered one weekend per month throughout the semester. This weekend structure is geared towards Austrian students who work full-time, so students take classes on the weekend and complete assigned projects during the week as time allows. Students can expect to take 3 CIS courses during the semester as well as a language and a culture course. The language and culture courses are offered on the FHJ Graz campus during the week. This program requires students to exercise a high degree of independence. The GVSU faculty liaison responsible for this program is Jerry Scripps, scrippsj@gvsu.edu.
