

January 2025

From CECI Advising

Message from Melanie

It's January; a new year, a new semester, and a new start on your next academic chapter!

I've never been big on resolutions around New Years, but something felt different in 2025. I really feel like I could do a lot of good by focusing on bettering something about myself or my life. So, here's to trying new things and focusing on self-improvement!

If you made a similar choice or are considering a more intentional step toward self-improvement, consider leaning on us -- your Academic Advising office is here to help you while you pursue your CECI degree.
