

Thriving in the Job Market

with your Humanities and Social Sciences Degree

Distinguished Grand Valley Alumni from the humanities and social sciences discuss the paths they took from college into the real world. Learn how the diverse skills they gained through their study of the liberal arts and sciences have impacted their success in the workplace since graduation.

Learn how you can integrate your own academic interests, talents, and co-curricular experiences into your educational path and career planning.

This panel discussion will empower students to identify and explain liberal education learning outcomes and articulate the relevance of these skills for their professional trajectories. Students will have the opportunity to ask questions of alumni and representatives from the Career Center.

Friday, October 25

10 -11 a.m.
