

WHAT IS GLOBAL HEALTH?

Global health differs from public health and international health. It involves global cooperation on the issues of disease prevention and clinical care. The aim of global health is to achieve health equity among nations, and its approach is multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary.

CHP'S GLOBAL HEALTH MISSION

The mission of the College of Health Professions' Global Health Task Force is to coordinate the research, service, and educational global health-related activities of Grand Valley State University faculty and students.

CHP'S GLOBAL HEALTH MISSION

- Develop and nurture global health partnerships
- Foster global health research and scholarship
- Help to train the next generation of global health leaders
