

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK PRESENTS:

2021 Code of Ethics Revisions and Application to Practice

AT A GLANCE

Did you know that the NASW Code of Ethics was revised in 2021? There were two primary revisions related to self-care and cultural competence. The updates to 'self-care' acknowledge the secondary traumatic stress endured by social work practitioners as well as concerns with impairment that inhibits work. The update to 'cultural competence' changes the tenor of Standard 1.05 by defining competence in as a life-long journey where clients are experts. Revisions also require practitioners to act against oppression, discrimination, and inequities, while also engaging in critical self-reflection regarding personal biases. This workshop will examine how these changes apply to social work practice. Participants will develop strategies to infuse institutionally supported self-care and identify biases (personal & implicit) to influence disparities in services.

Date

Friday, January 27, 2023
9:00am - 2:30pm

Location

GVSU - Bicycle Factory
Room: BIK 230
201 Front SW
Grand Rapids, MI 49504

REGISTER

Visit www.gvsu.edu/swce

CE
Credit

5.0

Cost

$99

SPEAKER

Jamie Langlois, DSW, LMSW, is an Assistant Professor for Grand Valley State University (GVSU) School of Social Work (SSW). Jamie has taught at GVSU for 18 years. She teaches social work ethical decision-making at the undergraduate and graduate level and conducts continuing education courses on the topic. Jamie enjoys the complex problem-solving nature of ethical dilemma trainings that engages participants in deep thinking about topics relevant to daily practice.

OBJECTIVES

- Describe the revisions to the NASW Code of Ethics related to self-care and the purpose for the changes
- Describe the revision to the NASW Code of Ethics related to cultural competence and the purpose for the changes
- Describe implicit bias and how it impacts services provided
- Identify at least one strategy (take action) to reduce disparities in access to and delivery of services
- Identify at least one opportunity for self-care within educational settings
- Understand the difference between personal bias and implicit bias

Grand Valley State University School of Social Work, an accredited social work education program, is authorized by Administrative Rule 338.2965 to award Michigan social work continuing education contact hours.