

Kaufman Interfaith Institute Presents

Strangers, Neighbors, Friends

Kelly James Clark, PhD

Rabbi Nancy Kreimer

Aziz Abu Sarah

Sunday, October 6 at 7 pm

L.V. Eberhard Center

Grand Valley State University

301 Fulton St W, Grand Rapids MI 49504

Reception and book signing to follow

Kelly James Clark, Senior Research Fellow
Kaufman Interfaith Institute

Rabbi Nancy Kreimer, Director, Multi-Faith Studies, Reconstructionist Rabbinical College

Aziz Abu Sarah, Author, recipient of the Goldberg Prize for Peace in the Middle East

For More Information:

interfaithunderstanding.org
interfaith@gvsu.edu
616-331-5702

Kelly James Clark, Rabbi Nancy Kreimer and Aziz Abu Sarah speak about their new book Strangers, Neighbors, Friends: Muslim-Jewish-Christian Reflections on Compassion and Peace. The book is an informed and robust defense of compassion toward neighbors, strangers and even enemies. It aims to show that Judaism, Christianity and Islam have the resources to motivate respect and love for those of very different faith traditions.

This event is supported by the Fetzer Institute.