Course Description:

This course aims to introduce you to a number of issues and controversies in psychology; it is also designed to help improve students’ critical thinking on a broader level. When confronted with contradictory information, differing opinions and points of view, it is necessary to have and work on improving your ability to comprehend and evaluate available sources and material. The use of such “critical thinking skills” can have a profound impact upon one’s life in terms of academic, professional, and personal success.

SWS Course: This course is designated SWS. Completion of WRT 150 with a grade of C or better (not C-) is a prerequisite. SWS credit will not be given to a student who completes this course before completing the prerequisite. SWS courses adhere to certain guidelines. Students turn in a total of at least 3000 words of writing. Part of that total may be essay exams, but a substantial amount of it is made up of essays, reports, or research papers. The instructor works with the students on revising drafts of papers, rather than simply grading the finished piece of writing. At least four hours of class time will be devoted to writing instruction. At least one third of the final grade in the course is based on the writing assignments. Students must complete the course with a grade of "C" or better in order to receive SWS credit. Students may receive SWS credit for taking the course as Credit/No Credit provided the student passes the course with a "Credit" grade.

Main Course Objectives:

- 1) To provide you with thinking skills that will enable you to analyze and evaluate complex issues in psychology.
- 2) To help you to improve your ability to express arguments in oral and written format.
- 3) To encourage you to learn how to acknowledge different viewpoints and become more tolerant of diversity.

Class Format:

Classes will be a mixture of discussion, group debates, and some lecture if needed. You will be expected to read and write extensively. Only important points from the readings may be emphasized in lecture format. The readings for this class are often difficult and will require you to read the material twice or three times. Make sure you will allocate the necessary time for this! At many times, discussion will center on sensitive and complicated issues, which may involve deeply held beliefs and opinions. Feel free to disagree with and challenge each other's opinions and statements but do so in a respectful way that focuses on the issues, not the individuals.

Materials for class:

No textbooks are required. The reading material will be available in pdf or word files that can be downloaded from Blackboard.

Course Outcome Measures:

Your final grade will be based on the total number of points that you receive on two essay exams (one midterm and one final), one major paper, weekly contributions to BB discussion board, a number of in-class debates, and attendance + participation points.

Exams: Each exam consists of essay questions drawn from lectures, readings, discussions, and videos. Exams will be completed through Blackboard Ultra using LockDown Browser. Exams should only be taken using a desktop or laptop computer to avoid problems using LockDown Browser. At the beginning of the semester, you will have an opportunity to practice using LockDown Browser for extra credit. It is highly recommended that you participate in this.

Paper (more detailed instructions will be provided in class and on BB): this will be on a topic from a list provided by the instructor. You will be graded on the quality of your writing as well as the content of your arguments and the selected texts. We will spend a significant amount of class time covering content and format of the paper. You will be asked to submit a rough draft worth several points.

A paper is penalized five percentage point for every day it is late (papers submitted after 11:59PM of the due date are already considered late papers). No late work will be accepted one week after its due date!

Questions/Observations Submission via BB Discussion Board: In order to facilitate our discussions, you are expected to write and submit on Bb three questions about the readings every time a set of readings has been assigned for that day/week. The questions you compose should both (a) demonstrate that you have thought about the readings, and (b) be designed to stimulate potentially interesting discussion of the topics at hand.

Generally, your questions will have to be submitted every Tuesday before 12pm (unless mentioned otherwise) and will contribute to your participation points. To receive full credit, you need to respond to contributions made by at least one other student. Depending on the quality of your contribution, you may receive 0, 1, 2 or 3 points (11 topics X 3 = 33 points max.).

Attendance and Participation. Your attendance of this course will be recorded. You are allowed to miss one class meeting for any reason without penalty; after that, however, each unexcused absence will deduct from your attendance score. Participation points: students can earn one point per topic by showing extra critical thinking initiative, finding information, correcting an argument or generally going above and beyond in terms of class participation or discussion of relevant material.

Use of Blackboard is integral to this course, and you must log on a few times each week in order to complete course requirements and to receive important announcements and updates about course content.

Integrity of Scholarship and Grades: All academic work will be done by the student to whom it was assigned. Anyone caught cheating (e.g., procuring, providing or accepting any materials which contain questions or answers to any exam or assignment, submitting work that has been previously graded) or plagiarizing (taking ideas or material from another source for either written or oral presentation without acknowledging the original source) will be dropped from the course, given an F, and referred to the University for further action. Cheating is a serious violation of academic integrity. For more information on academic honesty please see the GVSU student code <http://www.gvsu.edu/studentcode/section-4-academic-integrity-of-grades-and-scholarship-73.htm>. This course is subject to the GVSU policies listed at <http://www.gvsu.edu/coursepolicies/>.

Additional Thoughts:

As you cover the readings for class, share your thoughts with others during class, complete your assignments, I urge you to pay attention to how you've come to hold the beliefs that you have. What sources of knowledge do you use to support your beliefs? How do you respond to evidence or arguments that question a belief that you hold? What do you do when you recognize contradictions among some of your beliefs? When do you find that it makes sense to change a belief? These are all important questions to consider...

Writing center:

The Fred Meijer Center for Writing provides writing assistance to all GVSU students, on any type of project and at any stage of the process. The Writing Center employs both undergraduate and graduate writing consultants from a variety of majors and disciplines. Consultants are trained to help writers brainstorm, organize, and/or develop their ideas; and they can help writers edit their own work and document sources correctly. The Center's services are free and students can work with an idea or assignment prompt all the way through drafting and finalizing their paper.

Writing Center services are available in-person and online during all hours: (Mon-Thurs 9 a.m.-11 p.m., Friday 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Sunday 2 p.m.- 11 p.m.). Students can schedule appointments in advance via Book It or drop-in (first-come/first-serve) at any service location or virtually. Hours vary by location so please check Book It and our program website for up-to-date information - gvsu.edu/wc.
