Y is for... YOU!

The STEM field stands for Science, Technology, Engineering, and Computing. This is a diverse field where you can work in a variety of settings, whether you want to work with technology, geology, animals, people, chemistry, engineering... there will be a place for you and your interests! It is important to explore the field of STEM and learn about the amazing things you can do for others through it.

After completing some of the activities with the STEM ABC's, what activities did you like the most? Was there specific activities or lessons that you felt more interested in than others? Be sure to look at the "job exploration" with each letter of the ABCs to find careers that may interest you in the future.
