Major of the Month:

Film and Video Production

A strong hands-on emphasis characterizes the film and video production major at Grand Valley State University. Courses of study include animation, documentary, fiction, film studies, new media, nonfiction, scriptwriting, and sound design. The curriculum integrates production experience with insights offered by media history, theory, and criticism. The film and video production program is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD). Learn more about the major with these helpful videos.

CAREER OPTIONS

Check out this booklet of hundreds of career paths of GVSU alum from the Film and Video major. Video content is needed more than ever due to the explosion of social media, streaming services, television, film, education, corporate training and communication, advertising, video games, virtual reality and augmented reality. The possibilities are endless.
