ANGERS

A typical French town

Quality of life and cultural heritage

In the heart of the Loire Valley, a UNESCO world heritage site, Angers is a town of 160 000 residents famous for its quality of life. Capital of the old Anjou province, the 16th largest town in France, Angers is a young and dynamic city (48% of the inhabitants under the age of 30; there are 33 000 students). It offers a good number of cultural and touristic activities in an environment which includes green spaces, a great transportation network and bicycle paths.

Anjou, its landscape and castles

1. Brissac castle, the highest castle in Europe, is owned by the Marquis of Brissac and is just 15 minutes from Angers
2. Vineyard, Maine-et-Loire
3. The rose, a local production
4. The Fontevraud Abbey in the heart of the Loire Valley

LOCATION

Easily accessible, Angers is situated between Paris (1h30 by TGV) and the Atlantic Ocean (Nantes is 1h away by train or car).
