The 20/21 academic year proved to be one of historic mile markers cataloging loss of epic proportions for thousands of college going students across the US. In the midst of a national pandemic, students grappled with the loss of loved ones, jobs, social interactions and time with faculty. For some this loss was intensified by nationally televised racial tension and an ongoing need to secure housing, clothing and food i.e. their basic needs.

This basic needs gap gave way to new opportunities for the CWGE to showcase passion, ingenuity and program impact.

With limited hours and socially distant space the Center was quite but the support for our students remained. CWGE staff were able to feed students, advocate on behalf of survivors, facilitate conversation stimulating thought about erroneous US history and offer a hand in establishing a well received GVSU digital footprint.

The past 15 months can only be summarized with one word... creativity. Thinking creatively about how CWGE shows up and supports some of our most vulnerable students was the goal and team CWGE not only survived but we thrived in the midst of it all.
To create meaningful learning about gender and advocate for gender justice through the education, engagement and empowerment of students and the greater GVSU community.

REFLECTING ON ENROLLMENT DEVELOPMENT PRIORITIES

SERVICE/IMPACT IN THE MIDST OF COVID

We trained 73.27% of the first year 2020 class- 4040 total
We trained 50.29% of all incoming 2020 students- 5078 total

Ways in which the CWGE served students:

- Locating food for students
- Writing letters of support
- Providing transportation and support during court
- Securing scholarship funds
- Providing clothing from clothing closet
- Creating opportunities for peer/peer support
- Securing free menstrual products for student access in various bathrooms
- Acting as Basic Needs Taskforce
- Providing temporary childcare
- Offering space for confidential conversations
Unit Review
FLS is a high touch program that meets with students on a weekly basis, we address students basic needs and develop SMART goals for them to achieve graduation from the university.

Expected Performance Outcomes (based on grant)

- 90% of youth served have an identified mentor for a minimum six months
- 95% of youth served are still enrolled in post-secondary education six months after service begins
- Min of 90% of youth shall rate their participation in the program as satisfactory.
- 90% of youth served have an open bank account and have maintained this account for at least six consecutive months.
- 100% of youth served are in a safe, appropriate, and affordable housing.
MISSION: TO REPLENISH AND RESTORE STUDENTS FOR ACADEMIC SUCCESS

In the midst of a campus closure, Replenish was fast acting and making sure bags of prepacked food was prepared for students to come and retrieve or have it delivered to them. It was no surprise that usage was significantly down when compared to years past, specifically in the midst of a global pandemic and statewide shut down. In a traditional academic year Replenish impacts approximately 1000 students annually.

STUDENT IMPACT:
TOTAL NUMBER OF VISITS DURING THE 20/21 AY: 257
While usage numbers are dramatically different two other areas remain the same: Female/women identified users access the resource more than any other gender. African American students were a close second to majority students when looking at access based on race/ethnic identity.

Reflections:
• Associate Director (Replenish leadership) was asked to serve on a campus food group, acting as a voice and representing students that may face food insecurity.
• The Replenish budget is stable, although donations did slow down during the past 15 months.
• Making decisions about hours of operation during campus closure, summer and fall restart often lead to healthy discussions about impact (i.e. retention).

 Opportunities for growth (that have retention implications):
• New location/partnership with GVSU Library will allow for increased impact.
• Since donations were down it will be important to revitalize donor base.
• Clothing closet space adjacent to Replenish will give room to clothing closet.
• New partners looking to host food drives.
• A pending connection the kibble connection will
Victim advocacy services are delivered utilizing trauma-informed care and services continue to be tailored to unique student needs and pursuing the best course of action for the individual student's healing journey. Victim advocate services will always center the student's needs and demand justice for the survivor. Gender-based violence is not exclusive to one particular group - it is experienced by people of all genders, racial identities, sexual orientations, abilities, ages, education levels, and socioeconomic statuses. The COVID-19 pandemic has showcased that even when the world has shut down, violence is still happening. There will always be a need for victim advocacy and for advocate services to be easily accessible for all.
All violence prevention programs are designed to center the voices and experiences of victim/survivors and are created to be trauma-informed and promote a culture of healing and support. Our programming also emphasizes the importance of a culture that believes people when they experience harm and to think beyond a carceral approach to violence prevention. Having programming that centers these values is supported by data showing that the vast majority of incoming college students have already experienced some form of gender-based violence.
Gender-based violence data:

- 1 in 4 girls will be sexually abused before they turn 18 years old
- 1 in 6 boys will be sexually abused before they turn 18 years old
- 6 in 10 black women will be sexually assaulted before age 18
- High school
- 1 in 10 high school students have been purposefully hit, slapped or hurt by a girlfriend or boyfriend
- 1 in 5 women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- 1 in 10 men will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- Men are more likely to be victimized by gender-based violence than they are to commit it or to be falsely accused for it.
- 1 in 2 trans people in their lifetime will be sexually assaulted
- 1 in 2 indigenous women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- 8 in 10 women with a disability will be sexually abused in their lifetime
- 6 in 10 men with a disability will be sexually abused in their lifetime
- 1 in 6 (16%) college women have been sexually abused in a dating relationship
- 1 in 10 high school students have been purposefully hit, slapped or hurt by a girlfriend or boyfriend
- 1 in 5 women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- 1 in 10 men will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- Men are more likely to be victimized by gender-based violence than they are to commit it or to be falsely accused for it.

Data guiding violence prevention

Gender-based violence in childhood

- 1 in 4 girls will be sexually abused before they turn 18 years old
- 1 in 6 boys will be sexually abused before they turn 18 years old
- 6 in 10 black women will be sexually assaulted before age 18
- High school
- 1 in 10 high school students have been purposefully hit, slapped or hurt by a girlfriend or boyfriend

Gender-based violence in college and beyond

- 1 in 5 women will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- 1 in 10 men will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime
- Men are more likely to be victimized by gender-based violence than they are to commit it or to be falsely accused for it.
- 1 in 2 trans people in their lifetime will be sexually assaulted

Conclusion

This data is shown to reinforce why healing, support, and resources are crucial to integrate into programs for incoming students. Students are entering campus with unhealed trauma, and this impacts their daily life and their overall college experience. In order to retain victim/survivors, which is a vast majority of our student population, it is vital to provide meaningful programming to create a campus that does not tolerate harm and is committed to long-term culture change.

Having leaders, staff, faculty, coaches, and others in power positions receive this education is also necessary for culture change to occur.

Thus, it is a moral imperative that the programming delivered to the Laker community honors the data outlined above by focusing on victim/survivor support, dispersal of resources, and intersectional gender-based violence training that unpacks power and privilege.
For nearly 15 years, the NIARA group has convened students and faculty/staff women of color to encourage a sense of community culture, togetherness and educational support where needed. NIARA has been a lifeline for many students and faculty/staff alike when navigating the treacherous waters of a Predominately White Institution (PWI).

Following a dramatic transition with NIARA no longer being included in the Laker Connections program under the GVSU Division of Inclusion and Equity, NIARA nearly came to an end in the midst of this past year during the COVID-19 global pandemic. Nonetheless the group persisted.
A look at the numbers:
Number of students listed in EAB as NIARA AY 20/21 participants: 28
Number of students slated to return to GVSU in Fall 2021: 22
Number of Faculty / Staff of Color participating AY 20/21: 6
Number of meetings held during AY 20/21: 5
Topics covered during AY 20/21:
  * Back to school
  * Life in quarantine
  * Election outcomes
  * Relationships
  * Summer lunch
Participation range: >8
  * in person meetings

Reflections:
• Students and faculty/staff cling to the theme (notion) behind NIARA and believe in the power of what it can do for student success.
• Working independently outside of Laker Connections reduces some paperwork mandates, but doesn’t reduce the student impact.
  • This remains a high priority and personal area of satisfaction.
• Budget constraints will not offer any disruption because there was savings due to COVID-19 and campus closure.
• The Girls of Color Summit will be held this semester and there will be an opportunity to have NIARA participants involved.
• Incentives (food and/or prizes) are always welcomed and great motivation for participation, though not required for student commitment.

Opportunities for growth:
• Continue to look for ways to broaden the student and fac/staff participation so that other women of color (specifically Latinx and Indigenous identified people) engage more regularly.
• NIARA, specifically curated for “women” remains a space that opens discussion around the perceived notion of identify and how widely “women” is defined.
• In the coming year, it will be helpful to acknowledge students that consistently participate.
