Rachael Voorhees wants to lead a national nonprofit organization one day, helping establish policies and programs that make a difference in people's lives. She's off to a great start – representing more than 20,000 students and 160 student organizations as Student Senate president at Grand Valley State University. Rachael is also an Honors College student and has gained valuable experience serving nonprofit organizations as an intern and lobbyist in Washington D.C.

Grand Valley is preparing students like Rachael to become tomorrow's leaders and innovators. Our outstanding academic programs, accomplished professors, and world-class learning and living centers make Grand Valley a destination point for high-achieving students. It's the kind of learning experience you'd expect from a small private college -- with the programs, facilities, and resources only available from a major university. For more information, contact our Admissions Office at (616) 331-2025 or visit www.gvsu.edu.

- Offering more than 200 areas of academic study
- All classes taught by faculty, not teaching assistants
- Liberal arts focus emphasizing critical thinking and creative problem solving
- Master's level research opportunities for undergraduate students
- State-of-the-art learning, living, and research centers