A GVSU PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM

France: Université Catholique de l'Ouest Open to: All majors

TELL ME ABOUT THIS PROGRAM

Although l'Université Catholique de l'Ouest (UCO) is a private Catholic school, students of all backgrounds and faiths are welcome. The University is located in the city centre and is just minutes away from shopping, local parks and historical monuments.

The UCO exchange offers two different tracks for students to choose from. Students can either take courses through the French language program Centre International d'Etudes Françaises (CIDEF), or they can take regular university courses with French students commonly referred to as the "integrated" option. Past participants have also made arrangements to combine these two study options with the majority of courses taken through CIDEF and one or two integrated courses.

Students interested in the French language program through the Centre International d'Etudes Françaises (CIDEF) take courses during the fall, winter (spring) or summer intensive language sessions (June, July, August).

Alternatively, you can apply to study in regular university courses ("integrated" courses) with French students during the fall or winter (spring) semesters. Students interested in the integrated courses are encouraged to attend a one-month intensive French course in August prior to starting integrated classes in the fall semester. If you are proficient in the French language you are encouraged to consider the latter option.

Note: UCO's Spring semester is GVSU's Winter semester.

WHERE WILL I LIVE?

The staff of UCO's International Relations Office (Office des Relations Internationales) will arrange a homestay for you. Homestays cost an average of 300 EUR ($430 USD) per month without meals. Most host families are accessible from campus via COTRA, Anger's excellent public bus system. Due to the significant demand on homestay requests, not all students will be placed close to campus or close to the city centre. Students are asked to remain flexible about the homestay placement with the understanding that the primary goal is to learn about French culture from a local family's perspective.

Students who apply to study at UCO for the academic year can apply for housing a student residence that serves students from UCO, ESSCA and the University of Angers. The student residence is located next to a tram line and offer both single and double units with common living and eating areas and costs approximately $2000 per semester. There is limited space available in the student residence halls. Students must submit a housing application with their UCO application.

Students studying at CIDEF for the month intensive courses can expect to pay around 1150 euros per month for the homestay which includes breakfast and dinner.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE TO PARTICIPATE?

2.5 GPA required. Students with beginning or intermediate-level skills in French should enroll in the CIDEF program. Students at a more advanced level in French may apply to take regular UCO courses. Please consult the French section of GVSU's Modern Languages & Literature for academic advising.
