Norway: Culture, History, and Environment
Open to: All majors

TELL ME ABOUT THIS PROGRAM
Fagernes & Vaset, Norway - The Kingdom of Norway is an ideal location for the study of anthropology. Students will be based in the Valdres valley, a popular tourism destination, not only because of its mountainous natural beauty but also because of its cultural and historical significance. During this program, students will have the opportunity to engage with local residents with longstanding ancestral ties to the region, observe traditional transhumance practices by taking part in work on traditional summer farms, visit 900-year old stave churches and iron age archaeological sites, and learn about Norwegian culture, language, and preservation projects first-hand from local specialists and community activists.
